

Dr. Darren Lim is a Lecturer in the School of Politics and International Relations at the ANU. He researches and teaches in the field of international relations, at the intersection of international political economy and international security. His focus is primarily on geoeconomics and economic interdependence with a regional focus on the Indo-Pacific. He received his PhD and MPA from Princeton University. Darren holds first class Honours degrees in both economics and law from Monash University, and prior to his postgraduate studies worked professionally as a corporate lawyer, Associate to the Chief Justice of the Federal Court of Australia, and as a researcher at the International Crisis Group in Brussels.